

COULD IT BE WORZ? HERE ON HONEYMOON, BUT NO MRS. WORZ

Sailed From Schiedam on Rotterdam; She Missed the Boat, Says He, and—

Things could hardly be worse for Julius Worz. He has to spend his honeymoon by himself. And, take it from Julius, a honeymoon without a bride is not to be recommended.

Julius is a tobacco merchant of Schiedam, Holland. He arrived in New York on the Holland-America line's Rotterdam. But neither Schiedam nor Rotterdam, though spoken with all appropriate vehemence, were hasty words enough to express the frame of mind that Julius was in as he fixed his eyes on the status of liberty for the first time.

On February 22 Julius and Miss Henrietta Brabant of Haarlem, which is pronounced the same as the name of that section of New York lying south of the Bronx, were married. It was a fine wedding, attended by the leading burghers and Julius and Mrs. Julius looked forward to a delightful voyage across the ocean together, after which they were to journey to Cincinnati on a visit to Julius's brother, also a tobacco merchant.

The bride, however, went to bid farewell to some relatives near Rotterdam. She was to join Julius at the boat before his bride sailed. Julius was on hand but his bride was not. Nevertheless, the young husband inadvertently sailed alone. When he realized that he was off on a solitary honeymoon he remarked, "Well, I'll be Rotterdammed."

The wireless operator was appealed to. A message was sparked out into space imploring Henrietta, the bride, to tell her Julius where she was and what had befallen her. But there came no answering word.

The rest of the voyage across the sea was, for Julius, one long fidget. He fidgeted morning, noon and night. He had taken a very attractive young woman for better and for worse, and then gone sailing away to the other side of the world without her. Why shouldn't he fidget?

By the time Fire Island was sighted Julius was ready to fight anybody who ever dared to hum the wedding march. His countenance was as gloomy as a gargoyle. But when the Rotterdam docked a cable message was laid in his trembling hand.

It contained the cheering assurance that the bride would arrive in New York on the Campana of the Cunard line Saturday.

When Mrs. Worz arrives she and Julius will begin to be happy again. They will also enjoy seeing what kind of coupons are given with cigars and tobacco in classic Cincinnati.

GAS KILLS MAN; POLICE SAY SUICIDE; ACCIDENT, SAY KIN

David Sallop Is Found Dead in Bedroom, With Wife and Son in Danger of Asphyxiation.

David Sallop, a retired clothing merchant, fifty-five years old, was found dead in his bedroom at No. 117 West One Hundred and Fourteenth street early to-day, gas flowing from a wide opened cock over the bed. The police, who were called in by Harry Sallop, the dead man's son, reported the case one of suicide. The family insisted it was accidental.

People living in the apartment above that of the Sallops detected the smell of gas at 8 o'clock and roused the janitor of the building to make a search. It was several hours before the gas was traced to the bedroom Sallop occupied alone. His wife and son, who occupied different rooms, had not smelled the strong odor and might have been in danger of asphyxiation themselves if the investigation started by neighbors had not resulted in the discovery of Sallop's death.

The boy was removed to Flower Hospital. Dr. Crispell said he had a lacerated scalp and probably a fracture of the skull. The police have not been able to determine how the boy was injured.

TRY IT! SAYS SAGE TEA DARKENS AND BEAUTIFIES FADED, GRAY HAIR

Mixed With Sulphur Makes Hair Soft and Luxuriant and Removes Dandruff.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is coming in vogue again, says a well-known downtown druggist. It was our grandmother's treatment and hundreds of women, and men too, are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage. Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All

TURKS CAN HOLD ADRIANOPLE ONLY ONE WEEK LONGER

Commander of Besieged City Sends Warning That Army Is in Desperate Plight.

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 12.—A despairing cry of "I can hold out for another week" is alleged to have been uttered by Shukri Pasha, the Turkish commander of the fortress of Adrianople, which has held out for so many months against bombardment of hundreds of siege guns brought to bear by the Bulgarian and Serbian troops surrounding the city.

Shukri Pasha at the same time informed the Porte that Adrianople was nearing the end of its supplies of food and ammunition, while there is much sickness ravaging the ranks of the defenders.

The commander, who has offered such a long defense, urges that either the peace negotiations should be hastened in order to save the fortress from the humiliation of capitulation, or that an immediate attempt to relieve the city should be undertaken from the Chatalja lines, thus enabling the besieged Turkish garrison to effect a sortie, which even if it were unsuccessful would obviate unconditional surrender.

The Turkish Ministry is divided in opinion on the matter and has failed hitherto to reach a solution of the problem raised by the commander of the besieged fortress.

The ferment aroused by the murder of the late Nasim Pasha continues to threaten internal trouble in Turkey. At a service held here in memory of the former popular Commander-in-Chief of the Turkish army the officiating Mus-liman priest pronounced a malediction on his assassins as well as on those who had deceived the Sultan of Turkey, the head of the Muslim faith.

Crushed Under Fallen Trestle. S. London, thirty-eight years old, was killed in Long Island City this morning by the fall of a trestle. He was working on a ten-story factory building that the Tugman Contracting Company is erecting on Thompson avenue. A train of four cars loaded with concrete was being pushed along a trestle when the trestle gave way.
